The fact that Mrs. John Hays Hammond was entertained in Richmond several days this spring makes society here unusually interested in her movements, and the fact that these movements happen to be as wife of the representative of the United States at the coronation yesterday is of much importance. Mrs. Hammond was a magnificent robe that was made in Paris of the famous Moscow brocade, which is a peacock blue mofre on a backing of gold. The color changes to the palest silver and blue turquoise. It is made in princess style and draped about the figure, and has trimmings of diamonds embroidered on the tulle. She wore a necklace of diamonds and emeralds, and a third diamond and emerald necklace. Mrs. Hammond also carried a white ostrich plume fan, an exact counterpart of the one presented to the Queen by South Africa.

The John Hays Hammonds are installed in the Burdett-Court house, at the corner of Piccadilly and Stratton Streets, and some very handsome entertaining is being done in their honor. V. M. L. Ball.

Two of the big functions that have been given in Lexington for the annual at the Virginia Military Institute have been brilliant balls attended by a great many guests from a distance, among them being several Richmond people. The final military ball was given on Tuesday night in the gymnasium at the institute, which had been decorated for the occasion with quantities of trailing vines, bunting, and soft shaded lights. Those taking part in the opening figure were the members of the graduating class and the girls dancing with them. The girls wore lovely white frocks and carried great bunches of American Beauty roses, and the cadets wore the white uniform of a first classman. Cadet K. B. Kinsolving, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., president of the German, led the opening figure, dancing with Miss E. T. Tallafiero, of Baltimore. Miss Tallafiero wore a gown of soft white satin. Cadet P. Y. English, of Richmond, was assistant leader, and danced with Miss Crawford, of New Orleans. Miss Crawford was crowned in white marquisette trimmed with bands of white satin.

Other Richmonders dancing in the opening figure were Miss Nettie Ruehrmum, with Cadet Max Ruehrmum, Miss Dallas Lee with Cadet Philip C. Blackwell, Miss Mary Ball Saunders with Cadet P. McAdams, Miss Cora Fleming, with Cadet L. F. Moore, Miss Mary A. Johnson with Cadet Julian P. Smith, Miss Katherine Hagan with Cadet H. W. Smith, and others. The final ball, which took place Wednesday night, was also danced in the gymnasium. Cadet Joseph N. Dalton, of Winston-Salem, led the opening figure, dancing with Miss Margaret Dalton. American Beauty roses were carried by the girls taking part in the opening figure, and Miss Dalton's gown was of imported chiffon, hand-embroidered.

By Cuticura Remedies. Children Scratched Night and Day. Mother Suffered 8 Years. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Ringworm too.

"When a child, I suffered eight years with eczema. I could not sleep at night, and had sores all over my chest. We had doctors and mothers and no good, until my mother saw the advertisement of Cuticura Remedies in the paper. We used the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent, and they cured me of eczema. I also used them on my five children. Two of them had eczema very badly. When my children had eczema, I was not worried at all, as I knew the Cuticura Remedies would do their work. They had sores all over their heads, their hair would fall out, and they would scratch all night and day. They had it on their heads, faces, backs of the ears so that I thought their ears would drop off. I washed their heads and bodies with Cuticura Soap and they are as clear as the driven snow. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also cured my children of ringworm. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies. They are wonderful." (Signed) Mrs. Violet Cole, 26 S. AMHERST COUNTY POLITICS LIVELY

Candidates Begin Active Campaign—Farmers Busy With Wheat Harvest.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Amherst, Va., June 22.—Interest in politics increases every day, and the candidates for various offices are very active. Several of the aspirants have given written notice of their candidacy to Chairman Stickley Tucker and paid in their assessments. Senator-elect J. C. Stewart has already spoken at Leesville and Massie's Mills, in the interest of his campaign, and will address the voters at Onancock, in the upper part of the county, on Saturday, July 1. Bland Massie, his opponent, is also riding around in this district shaking hands with his friends. The rivalry of Senator Massie and Congressman Jones are equally as much disappointed, as Mr. Jones had arranged to return to Amherst, and it was expected that there would be a joint debate between these two on that day.

Wheat harvest is now on, and farmers are quite busy. In some localities the crop is good, while in others, where the drought has been severe, the crop is very low. The grain is cut, but the heads are still in the field, and that section of Amherst and Nelson which was swept by the hailstorm several weeks ago, the wheat was being plowed up and put into corn and clover.

The seventeen-year locusts, which made their advent some months ago, are said to be disappearing. Although they were quite numerous in some sections of the county, it is not believed that any great damage was done by them except to very young fruit trees. Many of the teachers of the county are leaving this week to attend the various summer normals. Among those going from this place are Miss Sallie Robertson, who goes to Charlottesville, and Miss Ethel Gilbert, who goes to Harrisonburg. Superintendent J. C. Campbell is in town this week, making arrangements for the summer school which opens here on Tuesday, June 27. This school will be maintained by the State and county, and will last four weeks. There will be three instructors. It is expected that a good many teachers will attend.

Miller had a head wound about twenty-five years old, and was about thirty years of age, and was a native of Staunton. There was some doubt of his being struck by a train, and foul play was suspected. George Johnson, a colored farmer, living in Dinwiddie county, was murdered by a highwayman who was an unknown highwayman just inside the corporate limits of the city about 9 o'clock to-night. Johnson had come to Petersburg to purchase groceries, and left for home about 8:30 o'clock. Just after crossing Butterworth's bridge a man sprang in front of his wagon and ordered him to halt. Johnson struck his mule with the whip, and was in the act of turning around to see who the party was that ordered him to halt, when the man fired at him. The bullet struck Johnson on the lower jaw, knocking out several teeth, and went in the upper jaw, and was located by the physician under the left eye. John son fell off the wagon when he was shot and his mule ran away. Johnson could not say whether the man who killed him was white or black, but did say that he wore overalls.
